

Speech Coaching

Are you a busy executive who doesn't have the time to take a lengthy training course? Do you have a specific presentation to give and think some one-on-one targeted attention might make it even better? Do you have to communicate to teams of people in meetings and less formal situations and would like to be more clear, concise and convincing?

If you find yourself in any of these situations, private speech coaching may be just what you're looking for.

Key Elements for Success:

- In-depth analysis of strengths and weaknesses in presentation and conversation styles
- Leverage benefits of video feedback and real-time coaching
- Focus on mastering basic techniques while capitalizing on advanced ones

'It's not easy for a speech coach to take one individual and within a few minutes make this person feel comfortable enough to open up and work through his weaknesses. Dawn does that with brio. Thank you Dawn.'

Bernard Sampson, Director, Mary Kay Cosmetics Ltd.

The key benefit to one-on-one speech coaching is the ability to make a major impact on your presentation and communication skill in the shortest amount of time. By using real-world business situations that you find yourself in, as well as specialized learning exercises, you can transform your ability to communicate effectively in hours, instead of days or weeks.

Becoming a masterful communicator requires becoming the best possible YOU and not copying the styles of others. Having a coach who specializing in maximizing your natural style and speaking talents will be worth its weight in gold.

Dawn Frail inspires leaders to build trust and loyalty so their teams will increase productivity and deliver higher bottom-line profits. She helps leaders and organizations achieve dynamic these results by creating a powerful leadership team – from the inside out. Timeless wisdom is brought to life through interactive workshops, seminars and keynotes. Dawn is a professional speaker, trainer and mentor known for her 'refreshing boldness' as she delivers a powerful and much needed message in business today.